This edition's featured park is Kruger National Park, the Skukuza Rest Camp and surrounds:

- Skukuza is the largest rest camp in Kruger with the greatest diversity of accommodation and facilities, most of which are fully accessible to mobility impaired guests.
- Skukuza is located on the southern bank of the Sabie River in the southern section of the park.
- The camp is best accessed via the Paul Kruger or Phabeni Gates east of the Mpumalanga town of Hazyview. There are accessible public ablutions at both gates.
- The area around the camp is mostly well wooded and good for general wildlife viewing but is especially renowned for its high density of leopard.
- 12 of the camps 229 accommodation units are adapted for mobility impaired guests.
- There are seven 2-bed bungalows, two 2-bed luxury riverside bungalows, one 6-bed guest cottage with access ramps and en suite accessible ablutions with grab rails, roll-in showers etc. and two 8-bed guest houses where in each, one of the 4 bedrooms is equipped with en suite accessible ablutions.
- The doctor's rooms, conference facilities, the library and museum complex and environmental education auditorium are all equipped with access ramps as is the reception block where a bank and post office are available.
- The Skukuza indigenous nursery is mostly accessible, and hosts a wetland boardwalk that is a superb accessible feature.
- The riverside walkway provides a wonderful surface for mobility impaired visitors to enjoy the busy wildlife activity of the camp's northern boundary.
- There are accessible unisex public ablutions at the reception block, at the cafeteria/shop/restaurant complex, at the conference centre, at the Selati Train Station restaurant, at the Skukuza Day Visitor Area and at the nearest picnic sites/tea-rooms at Afsaal, Nkulhlu and Tshokwane.
